BOSWELLIA SERRATA EXTRACT

STANDARDIZED WITH 10% AKBA

Phytochemicals found in oleo-gum-resin of Boswellia serrata (Indian frankincense) called boswellic acids, helps prevent inflammatory disorders. The oleo-gum-resin of Boswellia serrata contains pentacyclic triterpene acids like acetyl-boswellic acids and beta-boswellic acid. Among these boswellic acids Acetyl-11-keto- β boswellic acid (AKBA) is the most potent. Studies have shown that boswellic acids supports healthy inflammatory response similar to that of Non-steroidal anti-inflammatory drugs (NSAID).

Boswellic acids inhibits pro-inflammatory mediators in the body, such as leukotrienes. As opposed to NSAIDs, long-term use of boswellia does not appear to cause irritation or ulceration of the stomach or cardiovascular adverse effects.

Bospure® containing mainly Acetyl-11-keto- β -Boswellic acid which works through natural LOX-inhibitor anti-inflammatory mechanism.

Regular extract of Boswellia serrata contains only negligible amount of AKBA and mainly beta boswellic acid. In Bospure® the presence of AKBA contains 10% and that of beta boswellic acid is reduced to negligible level which acts as pro-inflammatory at times.

Well documented safety data suggest that Bospure® is well-tolerated and safe to use.

BOSPURE® AT A GLANCE

Standardized with 10% Acetyl-11-keto- β boswellic acid (AKBA)
